

JOYFUL TRILLIONS

At night in February snowflakes might sometimes dance and then quite often fly but many times they just idle in mid-air joyful trillions of gravity-defying cloud crystals all with much more than a little pride from having spent their formative years in the sky

Joyful Trillions© 2026

Anastasia Zolotukhina/Photography

<https://unsplash.com/s/photos/Anastasia-Zolotukhina>

Jon Trovato/Poetry